Based on data from the block, construct an interval estimate (with confidence level 95%) for the probability that a first-year Stern MBA student graduated from a college outside the United States.