The Nexus Between Sovereign and Financial Sector

Viral V. Acharya

NYU Stern Finance Ph.D. Elective Course (FINC.GB.4309) Fall 2021

Meetings:

- Thursday, September 2, 10am-11am, ORGANIZATIONAL meeting via Zoom
- Thursdays, September 9 December 9, 10am-1pm, Gruber room + Zoom
- Wednesday, December 15, 10am-1pm, room to be determined + Zoom

Overview:

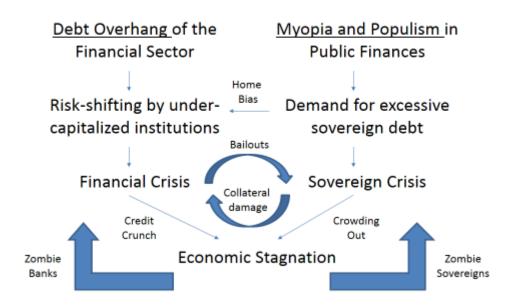

The objective of this course is to provide theoretical and empirical foundation for the nexus of credit risk between financial sector and sovereigns. This nexus has recently been at the heart of the ongoing sovereign and financial sector crises in Europe, while historically having been a greater focus in emerging market debt crises and Japan.

The course will focus on

- (1) Providing micro-foundations of sovereign debt given that there is no explicit institutional structure such as bankruptcy code which allows creditors to extract repayments, and how political economy considerations such as government myopia and populism affect the demand and nature of sovereign debt;
- (2) Understanding how credit risk migrates from the financial sector to the sovereign and vice-versa, in what is increasingly being called the "unholy nexus" or "doom loop" or the "diabolical loop";
- (3) Tying this nexus to micro-foundations of sovereign debt repayments as well as to incentives of highly-leveraged intermediaries such as banks;
- (4) Tracing out the real-sector consequences of this nexus and isolating the channel through which it affects the real-sector;
- (5) Studying the efficacy of regulatory interventions that have been designed such as the regulatory stress tests of banks, design of risk weights in bank capital requirements, and unconventional monetary policy and lender-of-last-resort actions of central banks; and,
- (6) Finally, examining this nexus during and after the outbreak of COVID-19.

The ultimate objective is to make sense of the following flow-chart of risks and their sources, from my Toulouse Lectures in Economics on "The Nexus Between Financial Sector and Sovereign Credit Risks".

Summary

Structure of Meetings and Evaluation:

Several of the in-class presentations will be done by Viral Acharya, especially on the theory and models; the rest by the doctoral students enrolled in the course. We will sort out who presents what at the organizational meeting. Quirin Fleckenstein will serve as an administrative aide.

Regardless of the presentation, all enrolled or attending the course will be required to write a high-quality literature survey of up to 10 pages covering any one of the topics and the related papers (included below or otherwise). The survey will be due one week after the course is over.

The grade for the course will be based on assessment of this survey.

I will give some OPTIONAL homework in the form of exercises and/or open questions around the theoretical models we discuss. Those who submit these will receive EXTRA credit towards the grade based on quality of their work.

Those presenting and actively participating in the class will get a dinner out of me!

Student Accessibility

If you will require academic accommodation of any kind during this course, you must notify me at the beginning of the course (or as soon as your need arises) and provide a letter from the Moses Center for Student Accessibility (212-998-4980, mosescsa@nyu.edu) verifying your registration and outlining the accommodations they recommend.

For more information, visit the CSA website:

https://www.nyu.edu/students/communities-and-groups/student-accessibility.html

Student Wellness

Classes can get stressful. I encourage you to reach out if you need help. The NYU Wellness Exchange offers mental health support. You can reach them 24/7 at 212 443 9999, or via the "NYU Wellness Exchange" app. There are also drop in hours and appointments. Find out more at:

Religious Observances and Other Absences

NYU's Calendar Policy on Religious Holidays states that members of any religious group may, without penalty, absent themselves from classes when required in compliance with their religious obligations. You must notify me in advance of religious holidays or observances that might coincide with exams, assignments, or class times to schedule mutually acceptable alternatives. Students may also contact religiousaccommodations@nyu.edu for assistance.

Except for religious observances or other absences that may be required in compliance with nondiscrimination law, this class otherwise requires attendance and participation and cannot accommodate conflicts. Please review all class dates at the start of the semester and review all course requirements to identify any foreseeable conflicts with exams, course assignments, projects, or other items required for participation and attendance. If you are aware of a potential conflict, it is strongly recommended that you do not take this class.

Inclusion Statement

This course strives to support and cultivate diversity of thought, perspectives, and experiences. The intent is to present materials and activities that will challenge your current perspectives with a goal of understanding how others might see situations differently. By participating in this course, it is the expectation that everyone commits to making this an inclusive learning environment for all.
